DETAILED ACTION

Non-Responsive Amendment

1. The amendment filed on January 29, 2001 canceling all claims drawn to the elected invention and presenting only claims drawn to a non-elected invention is non-responsive (MPEP § 821.03). The newly submitted claims are not readable on the elected invention because these claims are directed to a method of genotyping plants, classified in class 800, subclass 423. As set forth in the previous Office action, the cancelled claims were directed to microsatellite markers and methods of making said markers, classified in class 536, subclass 24.3. Applicant elected to prosecute Group I, identified to be directed to SEQ ID Nos: 1-20. The new invention covered by the new claims is independent and patentably distinct from the inventions previously presented. The new invention is related to the previous inventions as process of use of the product inventions. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case, the markers may be used for the insertion and verification of insertion of a heterologous sequence into a plant genome. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above, have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, and the literature and sequence search required for the process is not required for product, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.
